

It wasn't weird. It was weird. It had-- No, it wasn't. Yes, it was strange.

It was like pumpkin cheesecake ice cream. No, it wasn't even—it was weirder than that.

No, I think it was, like, sweet potato pie ice cream or something like that. But it wasn't my favorite.

My favorite is brown sugar almond brittle from Jeni's. Oh, yeah, yeah, yeah, you do like that.

You do like that. To get me through the end of Euphoria, I was eating a pint of that a day, which is not particularly good for you. That's not great for you, no. Yeah.

But you know-- It was really good. I'm not a huge ice cream lover. We did go to that place the other day, the Salt & Straw place. And I just had loads of different types.

And I really liked the mint chocolate chip. It was nice. He doesn't-- he can't get his teeth cold. I can eat ice cream with my teeth. But he's gotta like--

I can't do cold things. Like if I get a cold lime and soda, and there's too much ice in it, and it hits my teeth, it's game over. He's gonna bite it with his lips.

PRODUCER: How do you deal with the Frappuccinos, though? Don't you like iced coffee, though, Tom? I just put it past my teeth. I put the straw past

my teeth, like that. Yeah
